JMA’s Tokyo 2020 Weather Portal Website for Olympic and Paralympic Games

The Japan Meteorological Agency (JMA) has launched a portal website for access to weather information for the Tokyo 2020 Olympic and Paralympic Games to be held from 24 July to 9 August 2020 and from 25 August to 6 September 2020, respectively.

On 24 July 2019, one year ahead of the Tokyo 2020 Olympic Games, JMA launched this website to support the travel plans of many overseas visitors expected at the Games as well as at various related international sports events to be held in Japan this summer.

The site provides access to three-hourly and one-week forecasts and UV Index for individual event sites, high-resolution precipitation maps and links to other JMA products including weather warnings/advisories, seasonal forecasts, tropical cyclone analysis/forecasts as well as earthquake and tsunami information.

The website is currently provided in Japanese and English, however JMA plans to enhance its contents to be provided in 11 languages (Japanese, English, Simplified/Traditional Chinese, Korean, Spanish, Portuguese, Indonesian, Vietnamese, Tagalog, Thai and Nepalese) by September 2019 and additional 3 languages (Khmer, Burmese and Mongolian) by March 2020.
